VALACH TO LEAVE POST
AS UM PROGRAM DIRECTOR

MISSOULA--

Anthony "Tony" Valach has resigned his post as student union program director at the University of Montana in Missoula to accept a position as director of housing at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces. Valach's resignation is effective June 29.

As housing director at NMSU, Valach will be responsible for both residence halls and family housing. He has had previous experience with housing arrangements as an assistant to UM dean of students Andrew C. Cogswell from 1962-66.

Valach has taught at Hamilton High School, Red Lodge High School and Roy High School. He also served as director of the day school at Helena Business College, and taught night classes there.

Valach is a 1950 graduate of Fergus County High School in Lewistown. He holds a bachelors degree in business administration and a masters degree in education from UM.

Valach plans to begin work on his doctoral program in counseling and higher education at NMSU.
